DETAILED ACTION

Response to Applicant's Arguments / Amendments

This Office Action is responsive to the amendment filed on 11/9/06. Claims 1-20 are pending. Claims 17-20 are new. Claims 1-15 have been amended. Applicant's arguments have been considered, but are not persuasive. However, upon further consideration, the instant claims are rejected under new grounds of rejections and thus claims 1-20 are finally rejected for the reasons of record.

Re Remarks filed by applicant on 11/9/06, specifically on page 1, paragraph 2, applicant states claim 3 is cancelled, however, in the claims submitted (11/9/06) claim 3 is in the claim set. Therefore, for the purpose of examination the Office finds that claim 3 is not cancelled, but rather claim 3 is pending.

Re applicant's arguments against prior art Tuller (Us Patent No. 5,662,744), the current claims are no longer being rejected over Tuller. A new grounds of rejection is provided herein, thus applicant's arguments are moot.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Art Unit: 1746

Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by J. F. Clearman herein referred to as "Clearman" (3,180,348).

Clearman teaches an article washing apparatus specifically embodied in an automatic dishwashing machine (col. 1, lines 8-10). The invention of Clearman includes a upper spray arm 52 configured to spray at an upper basket 20 and a lower basket 21 (col. 3, lines 37-50). A recirculating pump 12 draws liquid from the sump 11 for supplying the spray nozzles with liquid; venturi 44 is a fixed central piece in the machine for communication with pump 12. Lower spray arm 36 reads on applicant's claims for a second nozzle proximate a second rack (col. 3, lines 70-75; col. 4, lines 1-18).

Re applicant's claim for a washing fluid sprayed in a "first mode" and "second mode", the Office is interpreting said modes to be equivalent to an "OFF" and "ON" spraying position. Thus when the nozzle assembly of Clearman changes from a first mode (OFF) to a second mode (ON) this is accomplished by rotating the first and second nozzle sections.

Clearman discloses an apparatus for washing dishes with control of washing of washing liquid flow to upper and lower baskets by indicating specific wash cycles, namely washing and rinsing cycles. Thus with said dishwasher, in some stages of the operative washing cycle the spray devices can receive water/soap at variable and differentiated flow rates, or some devices can be completely closed off; thus reading on applicant's claims for selectively spraying washing fluid.

Clearman evidently specifies manual rotation of the upper spray arm 52: because of the eccentric construction of the bearing 54 as well as the adapter rings 55 (O-ring) it is easy to position the receiving means 38 relative to the nozzle structure 28 so that the jet 39 will be centered with respect to the venturi entrance 47. Because of the provision of the adapter rings 55 and removable spring clips 61 it is very easy to remove the tubular receiving means 38 and attached spray arm 52 when desired (col. 3, lines 61-69). As seen in Figure 2, the central piece has lateral stepped portions configured to receive the pair of rings 55. Moreover, one of ordinary skill at the time of the invention would at once envisage said rings to be composed of a rubber based material; rubber-based adapter rings are commonly used and known in the art to be resilient, effective, long-lasting, minimize leakage of liquid, and are readily inexpensive components.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Rabuffetti (US Patent No. 4,094,702) teaches an apparatus for washing dishes allowing independent control of washing liquid flow to upper and lower baskets by valve means, allowing selective reduction of liquid flow to an upper washing arm and/or by-passing liquid so that it does not flow through the washing arm nozzles (abstract).

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: 1746

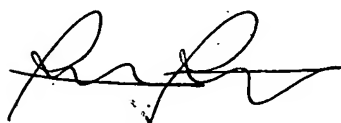

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
